TO-MORROW, THE BATTLE AND VICTORY.

To-morrow will take place the most important battle with the ballot that was ever fought in this country. In 1860 the Democratic party of the South, aided by the sympathy of the Democratic party of the North, attempted to secede, and was whipped by a Republican administration and a Republican army. In 1880, the same Democratic party of the South, aided by no less an organization than the Democratic party of the North, is now trying to get the control of this government. This is the chief issue, and the next in importance is that regarding the breaking down of the manufacturing industries of the United States. The Republicans of Janesville are not slumbering in the midst of this struggle. They realize the necessity of earnest work to-morrow, and we have the assurance that they will cast the largest vote and roll up the largest Republican majority ever given in Janesville.

They propose to do their share of the work which will win to-morrow a victory as equally important as that at Appomattox in 1865.

They propose to heartily and vigorously join the grand Republican army of the United States in striking a deadly blow at that policy which seeks to build up a party of treason and to break down a party of patriotism.

They propose to hurl a crushing "No" to that policy which attempts to put out the furnace fires of this country.

They propose to throw another veto into the camp of those who say we must trade with England and not with America.

They propose that American workingmen shall be paid and fed in preference to the workingmen in the Old World.

They propose that the party which conquered rebellion shall be entrusted with power rather than the party which created that rebellion.

They propose that Democratic free trade in scurrulous slander, personal vituperation, and wholesale lying and forgery shall be rebuked.

They propose that Right shall wear the crown and Wrong trampled under foot.

They propose that James A. Garfield, the soldier, the statesman, the scholar, the honest man, and the man of brains, shall be the President of the United States, and not Winfield Scott Hancock, the tool of the Confederates, the man ignorant of the first principles of statesmanship, and who insults a down-trodden race.

The Republicans of Janesville propose all these things. Every man will vote—will vote for the old Republican party, for free speech, for honest ballots, for fair counts, for honest money and for honest men. There can hardly be a doubt as to the result. There is almost a certainty that the entire North will be solid for the Republican party and Garfield. The result will soon be known; and to-morrow night throughout the great North, the cheers of the people, the roar of the cannon, and the dazzling brilliancy of illuminations, will tell the world that the Republican principles have won a victory.

The time for the Democratic funeral will be announced to-morrow night.

The people will decide to-morrow on the forgery question. It won't be any 8 by 7 decision either.

The forged letter on the Chinese question has been eternally smashed, and what will Barnum do next?

It is no wonder Hancock is disgusted with politics, but he will be more disgusted with the result of the election.

There is no danger that Hancock will sit up to hear the news Tuesday night. He won't want to hear the news the people are going to prepare for him.

There will be a regular jubilee and clapping of hands when the country hears that the greatest Shylock of the land has gone down to rise no more.

Let the Republicans cast a solid vote for Mr. Frank Lawrence to-morrow. His record in the Assembly last winter entitles him to the largest Republican majority the party can give in this district.

We are under many obligations to the Democrats of Janesville for the admirable arrangements they made to advertise the Gazette at their public meeting on Saturday night. It was a greater favor than we could possibly expect from the opposition.

The Democrats of Janesville feeling that there was no one here competent to tackle the Gazette for exposing the record of their party, sent to Chicago for a young man to do the work for them; and the meanest thing about it is, the Democrats would not turn out in respectable numbers to hear him "go" for the Gazette. They got him into the fight, and then ran off and hid.

Dr. Whiting professes to be an intelligent man, and yet in his speech in Lappin's hall Saturday evening, he said he did not believe that any one knows the amount of the national debt, and that it would not be known till the Democratic party got hold of the books! If Pretroleum V. Nasby had said that, it would not have been strange. It would have been entirely in keeping with the intelligence and utterances of the man of the "Corners," and the patron of Bascom's grocery. But for a man like Dr. Whiting to make that statement, and with pretended sincerity, is a matter of surprise. It is just as easy for the government to know how much it owes, and how much it has paid on the public debt, as it is for the best managed bank in this city to know what are its assets and liabilities. Of course Dr. Whiting's statements are fair specimens of Democratic knowledge and Democratic attempts to mislead the public. But when he said the country would not know what the public debt amounted to until the Democrats got hold of the books is on a par with the statement that the vaults of a bank would not be safe until it got under the control of a gang of plunderers.

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY AND FREE TRADE.

Mr. Henry McKey, of Chicago, delivered a speech in this city on Saturday night in which he used these words: "Any one who accuses the Democratic party of being in favor of free trade, is either an ignoramus or a liar." We presume these words were uttered after fully considering their meaning, and no doubt what few Democrats turned out to hear him, were astonished at his doctrine. He seems to have taught them as a Democrat never taught them before. He laid down what he claimed were the principles of the Democratic party, and from this there was no appeal; and any man who differed with him was honored with the pet epithet which was used a score or more of times—"an ignoramus or a liar." This may be Democratic buncombe and Democratic stump oratory, but it will not make Democratic votes and will not elect Hancock to-morrow.

But let us stick to our text. In 1856, on the 6th of June, the Democratic party met in national convention to nominate a candidate for President. Buchanan was nominated, and at the same time the following was adopted:

> The time has come for the people of the United States to declare themselves in favor of free seas, and a progressive free trade throughout the world.

Here we find the Democratic party in 1856 absolutely declaring for a progressive free trade, notwithstanding the statements of that positive young man, Mr. Henry McKey. But for his benefit, we will go farther. In 1860 the Democratic National convention at Charleston, and also the one at Baltimore, resolved:

> We, the Democracy of the Union, in Convention assembled, hereby declare our affirmance of the resolutions unanimously adopted by the Democratic Convention at Cincinnati, in the year 1856, believing that Democratic principles are unchangeable in their nature when applied to the same subject matters.

We trust Mr. McKey will not call us "an ignoramus and a liar" for reproducing these resolutions. The convention of 1856, declared for free trade, a progressive free trade, and the convention of 1860 reaffirmed that doctrine. These are facts, and Mr. McKey's positiveness can not change them.

From 1860 to 1868, the country had made great strides in manufacturing. The tariff question had become an important one. The Republican party supported protection, and the Democrats opposed it. Not being willing to go quite so far as it did in 1856 and 1860, though meaning the same thing, the Democratic convention of 1868, simply declared for a tariff for revenue only. In 1872, it said nothing. In 1876, it called the Republican policy of protection and the Republican system of tariff, "a masterpiece of injustice, inequality and false pretences," and declared for a tariff for revenue only. Mr. McKey is intelligent enough to know that a tariff for revenue, and revenue alone, is nothing less than free trade, because that kind of a tariff never protects, and can not protect.

We easily divine the motive of Mr. McKey taking this position and calling any one "an ignoramus and a liar" who says the Democratic party is for free trade. Mr. McKey is too much blinded by partisanship to discuss the question fairly. He should have said, and said it honestly, that twice the Democrats in convention did declare for free trade; but since then, in order to catch votes and deceive the workingmen, they had invented the term "tariff for revenue only." Such arguments as his never win. There is nothing so substantial as truth; nothing will convince men more easily than honesty and frankness in discussing public questions. Mr. McKey knows, and the world knows that the Democratic party, as a political organization, has always been a party of free trade. It has always denounced the Republican system of protection. It never in its history adopted a single plank in any platform which sought to protect the manufacturing industries of the country. The South is solid for free trade and the Democratic party of the North is solid for the South.

DESPERATE DEMOCRATS.

Chairman Barnum Busy Sending Special Telegrams to Cheer the Democracy.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The desperation of the Democratic case is shown by the fact that Senator Barnum is to-night sending a special telegram, at the expense of the National Democratic committee, to nearly all the Democratic newspapers in the country, particularly those in doubtful states, bolstering up the party cause and endeavoring to make it appear that Hancock's election is assured.

Of course the Democratic papers, most of them insignificant in character and limited in circulation, are glad to obtain a special telegram of such magnitude, and are willing to print whatever Barnum says as long as he is willing to pay the expense of their ostensible enterprise. For instance this telegram to-night, several columns long, was sent to such papers as the Cincinnati Enquirer, and at the same time to the Silver State, of Winnemucca, Nev. the State Register, of Springfield, Ill., the Independent of Eureka, Cal., the Los Angeels Herald, Fort Wayne, Ind., Sentinel, and about fifty others of equal caliber.

The character of the dispatch is in the same line with the forgeries and tricks that Barnum has already committed. It says that Chairman Jewell endeavored to bribe the newspaper Truth to suppress the bogus Chinese letter, that the Republicans now concede that Garfield wrote the Chinese letter; that they commend the sentiments contained therein; that the Republicans concede Hancock's election, and other statements equally remarkable, and false.

The papers which print the telegrams will no doubt make great boasts of enterprise, but it will cost the Democratic Committee several thousand dollars.

ON THE COAST.

The Forgery Falls Flat and is Considered of Trifling Importance.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31—The Morey forgery has fallen flat here, and, after the first day, was considered of trifling importance. Barnum has been flooding the State with fac similes of the letter and envelope, and with prepaid dispatches giving Democratic coloring to all the proceedings in the case in New York. The people here are, however, are too intelligent to be taken in with such chaff. They scouted the story, as there is no part of the country where a stronger interest is taken in the Chinese question, and none where more accurate knowledge is possessed by all voters in regard to the records of leading men on this question.

The full reports of the exposure of the fraud and the clumsy mistakes by the forger were supplemented by the condemnation contained in the chief papers at the East of all parties.

RIOT IN DENVER.

The City in Full Possession of the Mob—All the Chinese Homes Torn Down.

DENVER, Col., Oct. 31—Denver has been in the hands of a mob for eight hours, and there are now fully 1,500 rioters in the streets. The trouble has been growing for days. It was discovered a week ago that there were fully 8,000 illegal names registered in this city, and immediately the streets were filled with strangers of the worst character. Ever since the publication of the forged Garfield letter bitter partisans have striven to make an issue of the Chinese question, and the Democratic press has been filled with articles asserting that as soon as Garfield was elected the State would be flooded with Chinese and all white labor driven out. Saturday night the Democrats had a procession, carrying transparencies with inscriptions and cartoons intending to excite animosity against the Chinese. A considerable portion became intoxicated and remained out all night. This noon they made an assault on the Chinese houses, tearing down the houses, and beating and driving out the Chinese. One was dragged from Hop Lee's place with a rope about his neck and his skull crushed by kicks and bricks. The police were called out, but were unable to control the mob. The fire department was ordered to throw water on the rioters, but the mob attacked them and badly wounded two of the firemen. Many Chinamen were fearfully beaten. One was rescued by the police and taken to the jail, which was immediately surrounded by a mob of about a thousand, who hurrahed for Hancock and yelled, "Lynch the leper." The special police managed to keep back the crowds. The other mob remained intact in the lower part of the city. About dark they were entirely beyond control, and marched from street to street, gutting Chinese houses wherever they found them, and assaulting citizens in Lawrence street.

At Sixteenth street an unsuccessful effort was made to drag him from the wagon. Several are reported killed, but the condition of the streets is such that it is impossible at this hour to get definite reports. Many colored men were knocked down and beaten. At this hour (midnight) the rioters are still on the streets in full force.

Special police have been sworn in to the number of 300. There is a great deal of incendiarism to-night, and the fire department has been called to be ready at the slightest warning.

Reports of pistols are heard all over the town, and the militia will be called out.

Threats have been freely made that the Tribune office would be sacked, but, though the mob have been howling opposite from it, no attack has been made as yet.

Citizens, irrespective of party, are intensely indignant. The transparencies carried in the Democratic procession Saturday night were devoted altogether to the Chinese, and these, with the constant repetitions of the Garfield forgery, are the causes of the mob. There is a dangerous night ahead. The Chinese population here cannot exceed 150 all told, and from the beginning of this disgraceful riot not a single incident is reported of any one of them having resisted the onslaught.

A Happy Restoration.

I can truly say that I owe my present existence and happy restoration to the hopes and joys of life, to the use of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, and I say to every one suffering from any manner of kidney, liver or urinary trouble, "Use this remedy and recover."

"TRUTH" CRUSHED,

And Justice Gets Her Due.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Judge A. J. Dittenhoeffer, a prominent lawyer of this city, and the attorney of the Truth newspaper since its establishment, publishes to-day in the New York newspapers a letter in which he states that on two occasions the proprietors of that paper have admitted to him that the Morey letter was a forgery, and sought his advice as to the wisdom of the Truth coming out squarely and admitting that it had been imposed upon, and making such reparation as they could. Judge Dittenhoeffer advised them to do so, and the owner, Mr. Hart, promised to publish editorially on Wednesday the following:

"Since the publication of General Garfield's explicit denial, we are in doubt as to the authenticity of the Morey letter."

This was to be followed by a full and complete retraction of the libel.

Oren Catlin, 49 Pearl Street, Buffalo, N. Y., says: I have tried various remedies for the Piles, but found no permanent relief until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. A few applications has entirely cured me, and I cheerfully recommend it to those who suffer from this annoying complaint.

DR. CARVER.

The American Marksman Astonishing the Crowned Heads of Europe.

A BERLIN letter to the New York Sun says: The well-known American marksman, Dr. William F. Carver, is exciting much interest here. In England the Prince of Wales and the nobility attended his exhibitions. The Prince gave him valuable presents, including a scarf-pin and a costly belt. In Paris his feats were witnessed by thousands. The man who could put a rifle ball through the center of a silver quarter as it spun through the air, and who could break glass balls with a bullet almost as fast as a man could hurl them at him, was one to please the Parisians. The men praised him, and the women, attracted by the romance of his early life among the Indians and by his manliness and modesty, showered him with attentions. Pictures representing him in hunting costumes were sold everywhere, and while he remained in Paris he was all the rage.

In Germany he has been received with even greater favor. Honors have been heaped upon him on all sides, royalty itself coming forward to do homage to his skill. After Dr. Carver had won all the leading prizes in several contests, and had given exhibitions of rifle shooting on foot and horseback, and had shown his skill with the lasso, the Emperor William asked him to give an exhibition before the court. He did so on Sunday, June 13. The Imperial family and many of the nobility were present. The programmes were printed on white satin a foot long and six inches wide.

The Emperor was delighted with the Doctor's display of skill, and eagerly watched each shot. On the next day an Adjutant bore to the marksman an elegant diamond ring. It was inscribed. "From His Majesty the Emperor of Germany to Dr. Wm. F. Carver, June 15, 1880."

Within a few days the Crown Prince sent Dr. Carver word that the Crown Princess desired to see another exhibition of his skill on horseback. The Prince added that she had been very melancholy of late, and that the shooting seemed to arouse her. He hoped that Dr. Carver would oblige him. The Doctor took the train for Potsdam yesterday. The royal carriage was waiting for him at the depot. Servants took charge of his guns and his horse Muldoon, a gift from the Prince of Wales. The exhibition was given on a grassy lawn. A dozen chairs were brought out for the Crown Princess and attending ladies, and the Crown Prince and gentlemen took positions behind them. The Crown Princess is a short, fat woman, about forty years old. She has a round, red face, and nice, white teeth. She wore a black-and-gray plaid cambric suit, a black chip bonnet, and dark gloves. She was very pleasant, and freely conversed with Dr. Carver. The Doctor's wife accompanied him. She is a sister of Lawyer Hugh Dailey, of New Haven. Their courtship was romantic. Mrs. Carver's brother, John Dailey, was a San Francisco stock broker. When Dr. Carver left the plains and began to give exhibitions of his marvelous skill, he went to San Francisco. John Dailey befriended him. Dailey was afterward shot and killed by a street loafer. His body was taken to New Haven and placed in the family burial plot. When Dr. Carver came East, a year or two later, he went to New Haven to procure Winchester rifles for fancy shooting. He visited the grave of his friend, John Dailey. As he approached it he saw a young lady planting flowers on the grave. She was the sister of his friend. They entered into conversation, and, before he had discovered her relationship to his dead friend, he had fallen in love with her. They were married within a year, and she accompanied him to Europe.

While shooting before the Crown Princess the Doctor wore a short velvet jacket. A wide-brimmed white sombrero shaded his eyes from the sun. His wife wore a similar jacket and hat. The hat was adorned with a long plume. White satin programmes were used.

The exhibition included shooting with rifle and shotgun at flying and stationary objects on foot and on horseback, shooting with the bow and arrow, and throwing the lasso. It was very interesting and exciting. The Crown Prince presented Dr. Carver with a valuable scarf pin. It bore the monogram of Frederick and Victoria surmounted with a crown. It was of rich, yellow gold, set with diamonds and rubies. The visitors breakfasted in the sitting-room of Frederick the Great.

The people here are amazed at the Doctor's skill with the rifle, and the unusual attentions that he received from royalty has added to his prestige.

THE FISHING FROG.

A Peculiar Monster of the Deep.

A description of a remarkable fish may interest our readers. It is known by several names at different localities on our coast. At Provincetown it is called the goose fish, because of a report current among the fishermen of that place that it catches wild geese and devours them whole. Elsewhere the fish is called the angler, fishing frog, sea devil, bellows fish, monk fish, etc.

One day last summer, while on the Speedwell, off Cape Cod, we saw several large fishing frogs caught in a trawl-net, the largest of which was about four feet in length. Its huge mouth was fifteen inches in expanse, and seemed to open directly into its stomach, which was full of great flat fish and flounders. Its rows of long, sharp teeth were inclined inward and could be depressed at will, allowing the easy ingress of its victim, but were a sure prevention of his ever escaping. The edge of his head and also of his body was adorned with a leafy fringe resembling the fronds of seaweed. This together with its chameleon-like faculty of varying its color, in accordance with its surroundings assists this unwieldly creature greatly in securing its prey. To aid it further in obtaining its food, this fish has three long filaments growing out of the middle of its head. The fore most of these is of especial service, for at its end it carries a tassel, which serves as a lure to attract the unwary prey within reach of the cavernous mouth beneath the hair, and in addition to these peculiarities, the pectoral and ventral fins are jointed, and the fish, using these as feet, is enabled to walk over the bottom of the sea. The fishing frog seems to proceed somewhat in this manner for the purpose of obtaining his food. Moving along the bottom of the sea, he seeks some suitable position among the seaweed, where, safely ensconced, he may attain his purpose. Having satisfied himself as to the place selected, he gets out his fishing rod and bait and waves it around in the water, until some unsuspecting fish comes up to seize it, when the angler, snatching the bait out of the way, swallows the fish. The young ones present a more curious appearance even than the adult. The filaments on the head are more numerous and are tree-like in shape, the pectoral fin is much longer and has long spines on it, and the fins at the side are very large in comparison to the body. The fishing frog is very rapacious, and often swallows fish as large and heavy as itself; such is the expansibility of its stomach. It is not eaten, but when captured by fishermen, it is preserved because of the other fish often found in its stomach, and which it is compelled to disgorge by the simple process of holding it upside down. Many stories are told of the goosefish and its voracity. It has been known to seize on codfish as they were drawn from the water, and was with difficulty forced to loosen its hold. The specimens we saw hauled on board the vessel were full of fish they had swallowed on their journey in the trawl from the depth of fifteen fathoms.—Sea World.

Scours in Calves.

It has been my province for several years to take charge of the calves, and I have had very good luck, but find that when they first begin to eat sour milk they are generally apt to scour and if the looseness is not checked it reduces them. Now, as an ounce of preventive is better than a pound of cure, I use about a great spoonful of prepared chalk in their drink. I stir it into the milk and they never mind it. One dose is sufficient as a general rule. Another good thing for the calves is occasionally to throw a shovelful of fresh earth upon the floor of the stable where they can see it. They will lick it up and seem to enjoy it very much. When they are old enough to be turned out they generally help themselves to a few licks of earth every day. It seems to be a natural instinct and something that they crave. I used to give rennet, or a solution of rennet just as it is prepared for cheese making, when a calf scoured; a couple of spoonfuls in six quarts of milk; but I like the prepared chalk much better. It can be procured at any drug store at small cost; and it is a very handy thing to use and has always proved very efficacious, not only in preventing but also in curing the complaint. I think the earth is quite a necessary item, and as I have never seen anything written or printed about it I have ventured to suggest that those who are raising calves should supply the little creatures with fresh earth and see how much they relish it. I take it from the garden and it is better to be moist than dry.

When I begin to feed meal to the calves I use wheat camille, or shorts, preferring it to anything else. I take half a pint, pour boiling water on it in a pail, stir it well, put in a teaspoonful of salt, and then fill the pail (which holds ten quarts) with sour milk and stir it well. I feed this twice a day and give them good bright hay for dinner. They thrive well and seem well satisfied with their rations.—Cor. Country Gentleman.

A special cablegram from Pesth, Hungary, says: A most extraordinary case of resuscitation is reported to have taken place at Raab on the 14th inst. Raab is about sixty-seven miles from here, and was formerly a fortified city. It is built on the river of the same name and is a place of some commercial importance. The story that comes from there reads more like one of the grim contes drolatiques of Balzac than an occurrence of the present day. A young convict named Takaes, who had murdered two women, was hanged. He was about twenty-three years of age. After the body was cut down and examined by the physicians, life was pronounced extinct. As a scientific experiment the body was subjected to an electro-galvanic current, and after a few hours signs of life were perceptible. The convict completely recovered the use of his senses, and his first actions were of violence toward the prison officials by whom he was surrounded. He soon began to suffer from congestion of the brain, and became delirious during the night. He made repeated attacks upon the keepers and complained of violent pains, asking from time to time for milk and water. Death released him finally from his sufferings yesterday morning. The entire medical faculty in this city is considerably exercised over the case.

DR. PRICE'S REPUTATION!

Has been acquired by candid, honest dealing and years of successful practice.

My practice, not use of experiment, but founded on the laws of Nature, with years of experience and evidence to sustain it, does not tear down, make sick to make well; no harsh treatment, no trifling, no flattering. We know the cause and the remedy needed; no guess work, but knowledge gained by years of experience in the treatment of Chronic Diseases exclusively; no encouragement without a prospect. Candid in our opinions, reasonable in our charges, claim not to know everything or cure everybody, but do lay claim to reason and common sense. We invite the sick, no matter what their ailment, to call and investigate; offering they abandon hope, make interrogations and decide for yourselves; it will cost nothing as consultation is free. KIDNEGEN is highly recommended and unsurpassed for WEAK or FOUL KIDNEYS, DROPSY, BRIGHT'S DISEASE, LOSS of ENERGY, NERVOUS DEBILITY, or any OBSTRUCTIONS arising from KIDNEY or BLADDER DISEASES. Also for Yellow Fever, Blood and Kidney Poisoning, in infected malarial sections.

By the distillation of a FOREST LEAF with JUNIPER BERRIES and BARLEY MALT we have discovered KIDNEGEN, which acts specifically on the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, removing injurious deposits formed in the bladder and preventing any straining, smarting sensation, heat or irritation in the membraneous lining of the ducts or water passages. It excites a healthy action in the Kidneys giving them strength, vigor, and restoring these organs to a healthy condition, showing the effects on both the color and easy flow of urine. It can be taken at all times, in all climates, and under all circumstances without fear of any cold or preparation for Kidney difficulties it has a very pleasant and agreeable taste and flavor. It has been difficult to make a preparation containing positive diuretics properties which will not nauseate, but be acceptable to the stomach. Before taking any Liver medicine try a bottle of KIDNEGEN to CLEANSE THE KIDNEYS from foul matter. Try it and you will always use it as a family medicine. Ladies especially will like it, and gentlemen will find KIDNEGEN the best Kidney Tonic ever used.

NOTICE.—Each bottle bears the signature of LAWRENCE & MARTIN, also a Proprietary Stamp, which permits KIDNEGEN to be sold without license by druggists, grocers and other persons everywhere.

Put Up in Quart Size Bottles for General and Family Use.

If not found at your druggists or grocers, we will send a bottle prepaid to the nearest express office to you.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A DISCOVERY BY ACCIDENT, which escaped a whole men of eminent ability have devoted years of study and experiment to find—a remedy for the diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder, Urinary Organs and Nervous System—and from the time of its discovery has steadily increased in favor, gaining the approval and confidence of medical men and those who have used it; it has become a favorite with all classes, and wherever introduced has superseded all other treatments.

DISEASES OF THE KIDNEYS

are the most prevalent, dangerous and fatal affections that afflict mankind, and so varied and insidious in their character, that persons often suffer for a long time before knowing what ails them. The most characteristic symptoms are gradual wasting away of the whole body, pain in the back, side or loins; a weak, feeble, exhausted feeling; loss of appetite and dread of exercise; scanty and painful discharge of variously colored urine; inability to retain or expel the urine; minute chalks or casts in the urine; and, when the disease is of long duration, there is much emaciation and general nervous prostration.

THE ONLY CURE.

We say positively, and without fear of contradiction, that DAY'S KIDNEY PAD is the first and only infallible cure for every form of Kidney disease. It is the best remedy yet discovered for this complaint, and more effectual in its operation than any other treatment. By using faithfully and persistently no case will be found so inveterate as not to yield to its powerful remedial virtues.

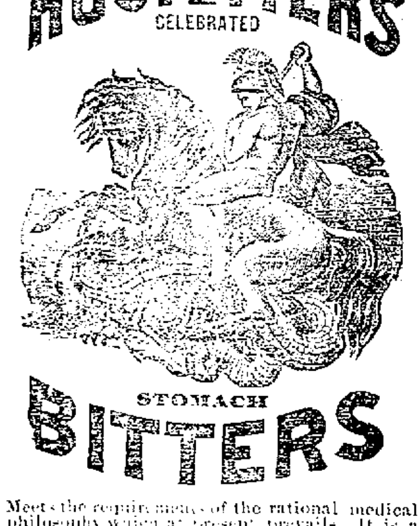

IS STRONGLY ENDORSED.

We have the most unequivocal testimony to its curative powers from many persons of high character, intelligence and responsibility. Our book, "How a Life was Saved," giving the history of this new discovery, and a large record of most remarkable cures, sent free. Write for it.

DAY'S KIDNEY PAD are sold by druggists, or will be sent by mail (free of postage) on receipt of the price—Regular, $2.00; Special, for obstinate cases of long standing, $3.00; Children's, $1.50. Address DAY KIDNEY PAD CO., Toledo, O.

CAUTION. Owing to the many worthless Kidney Pads now seeking a sale on our reputation, we deem it due the afflicted to warn them. Ask for DAY'S KIDNEY PAD, take no other, and you will not be deceived.

HEIMSTREET is the only agent in Rock county for Day's Kidney Pads.

Meets the requirements of the rational medical philosophy which at present prevails. It is a perfectly pure vegetable remedy, embracing the three important properties of a preventive, a tonic, and an alterative. It fortifies the body against disease, invigorates and re-vitalizes the torpid stomach and liver, and effects a most salutary change in the entire system, when in a morbid condition.

For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

H. A. PATTERSON, P. M.

The Ideal Home.

There is in the heart of every civilized normal human being a desire for that kind of companionship which belongs exclusively to the institution called Home. Clare has prettily said that "to Adam Paradise was a home; to the good among his descendants home is a Paradise." I have never been very clear in my notion as to what kind of a home Adam found in Paradise, but I have some grateful recollections of many homes which I should hesitate to exchange on even terms for any ideal Paradise from Adam's day to mine. That distinguished person did not seem to have had a very lively appreciation of his home blessings, and I have always regarded his rebellion as weaker and more senseless than any mistake that his descendants can be charged withal. But inasmuch as it is through him we are denied that particular Paradise in which he and Eve set up their primitive housekeeping, we ought to do the next best thing—make home a paradise.

The perfect home is possible in just so far as those who compose it are disenthralled of human imperfections. We cannot go beyond ourselves, but we can grow in those graces which make life beautiful, and perfume home with the breath of prayer to benignant household gods. In respect to home, I do not think the ideal is necessarily the unattainable. It is a reasonable postulate that man is incapable of an impossible ideal. Then if he set up his own ideal of home as a standard—being equal to himself in his best estate—I shall assume that it is possible for him to realize the highest point of his ideal. It is more than likely that what I have chosen as the kind of home most to be desired would be in some essentials distasteful to the man next door; but on many fundamental points I am very certain we should find ourselves in harmony.

I can set down in plain phrase my own views of what home ought to be, and if any disagree with me I beg them to remember that on this theme I do not presume to speak absolutely, except as to myself alone. If you like my way come and walk with me. If I chance to fancy a garden of daffodils and you think life not worth the living unadorned by fuchsias, all right. There is the point at which our ways diverge, and so far as I am concerned you shall have all the fuchsias you want—in your own garden. We are agreed as to the desirability of having the gardens to do with how we will. I ought to say, perhaps, that I am looking at this subject with man's, not woman's, eyes, though I hope that many men and many women will find mine largely commonground.

When a young man and a young woman learn that they are necessary to each other's happiness (and here I assume that they have not permitted a mere ephemeral fancy to lead them into that fatal and most terrible of all errors, an ill-assorted union) they should marry. Their next step should be to establish themselves in an independent home—a place sacred from meddling intrusion—over which they shall be joint and absolute rulers, jealous of each other's rights as against all persons under heaven. Their kingdom once established on that tenure a long step has been taken in advancing the plan of an ideal home. It is really of very little moment whether the house in which they live be cottage or mansion, but I am inclined to the opinion that the cottage holds the balance of happiness.

Then there should be an earnest self-examination in which both strive in all sincerity and without reservation to correctly and exactly measure themselves in order that they may at the outset learn that most useful human lesson, self-control. Neither men nor women are angels, and the young couple must be prepared to see many unpleasant confirmations of this very earthly truth. But they are so contrived that what is good in each may by a process as beautiful as it is mysterious be interchanged and assimmilated. It is mainly important they beware of the temptation to assimilate the dross and not the gold of their natures, for the one is as easily assimilated as the other. The time must inevitably come when the husband shall be a grievous trial to the wife and she to him. Both have foibles, the only correctives of which are forbearance, gentleness and good nature. These are merely attributes of that grander and loftier quality, self-control, to which they must nail their flag, and there let it flaunt eternal defiance to every enemy, domestic and invasive. A certain devoted and amiable artilleryman, when speaking of his wife to their common friend (a stalwart and no less amiable trooper, but a bachelor,) was wont to say that discipline must be maintained. I agree with him, but I think the best results are those which come from discipline of one's self. The husband who tries to establish a despotic command over his wife makes a miserable failure of it in real life. There are no Mrs. Quilps except in books. Domestic despotism breeds deception, the final outcome of which is that ghastly satire of the divorce courts, incompatibility. An unlettered old lady of my acquaintance once called it contemptibility.

It is of tremendous importance that the occupants of an ideal home cultivate an unreserved confidence in each other The expression of this must, in the nature of the case, be very different in them. The wife being but in a slight degree a part of the big world that lies beyond the horizon of her home, is prone to magnify trivial things. They are, nevertheless, important to her, and her husband cannot do her daintier honor than to give an interested ear to her relation of them. The beautiful temple of confidence is built of such materials. On the other hand, I believe the wife should interest herself in her husband's affairs, and that he should give her every opportunity for counsel or sympathy, perhaps both—for there are few breadwinners to whom genuine wifely sympathy and womanly counsel are not invaluable. The wife who has mastered the details of her husband's worldly concerns sufficiently to feel an interest in them, aside from her natural interest in him, almost always maintains her early empire over his heart.—"Signor Max," in Detroit Free Press.

The Farm Outbuildings.

We gave a few weeks since, some thoughts on the repair or re-building of farm outbuildings, but there is one thing of importance which was not enforced in that article and that is, a caution against spreading the outbuildings over too much ground and placing them at too great a distance from the dwelling. It is well, of course, not to crowd the barn or stable too near the house. There are important sanitary advantages in having a free circulation of air about the premises, which are not secured where the stable adjoins or is in very near proximity to the dwelling, it being understood that the site is well protected from the sweep of cold, piercing winds. While there are advantages, however, in not crowding the buildings, there are also advantages in not having them too far removed. It is more convenient to do the necessary work where outbuildings are near the dwelling, but there is a greater risk from fire, which must be made secure by a policy in some safe company.

The barn, stable and piggery must be at a reasonable distance from the house but they must not be carried too far away. And just this is the point to be guarded against. Not long ago, in visiting the farm of a well-to-do and most intelligent farmer, we counted no less than eleven outbuildings, strewn about over fully an acre of ground, (possibly more,) making it a good task to go from the house to the farthest building in the morning before breakfast, of a winter's day. This is a miserable economy in building, and a more miserable economy in having to tramp, year in and year out, between these buildings in doing the ordinary "chores," and taking care of the animals of the farm, summer and winter. A miserable economy in building, for, consider the cost of erecting these separate buildings, protecting the roofs from leaking, and keeping them in repair. For some purposes a slightly enlarged building might serve the uses of two or three, thereby lessening the first cost and reducing the heavy tax of keeping the building in repair. A mistaken policy, too, in doing the farm work, for, consider the amount of time consumed in traveling the long distances to these buildings in feeding and caring for animals in the course of a year, over what would be the case if they were located compactly, and the good results which would follow if this time, which must be regarded as lost, were turned to some useful, productive labor.

Avoid the building of many outbuildings for the farm and avoid spreading them over too much ground. Many buildings are an expense, and entail a heavy tax in the way of repairs; and it is a life-long disadvantage to have them two far from the dwelling, or so situated that much travel will need to be made from one to the other in doing the work of the farm. Have the outbuildings compactly situated; protect the farm yard by the several outbuildings as much as possible, so that severe winds may be kept at bay, and whether few or many are demanded by the farm stock, implements, storage of crops, etc., have them so located that steps may be saved in doing the work, or, in other words, have them convenient, handy and comfortable. Then the "farm steading," as the English term it, will be an ornament to your farm and a constant source of pride to the owner.—New England Farmer.

The common disease in cows and sheep which appears by watery blisters on the feet and between the claws of the hoof, followed by raw spots which are difficult to heal, is known as aphthous fever. Sometimes it is accompanied by similar blisters on the lips and tongue, when it is called "foot and mouth disease." It is a fever, or blood disease, and is contagious and troublesome, but not serious, and easily submits to treatment as follows: Give one pound of salts, and when that has operated, give one ounce of hyposulphate of soda daily; wash the sore spots with water and soap and dress them with an ointment made as follows, viz.: Melt four ounces of lard and one ounce of spermaceti together, add one ounce of acetate of copper (verdigris,) and stir thoroughly, and while still fluid add one ounce of turpentine and stir until cold. Keep for use. This ointment is excellent for any raw sores or galls and may be usefully kept in any stable. —American Dairyman.

PLAIN WORDS AGAIN.

The Republicans are to Gather in Lappin's Hall this Monday Evening.

The Republicans are to have their last rally of the campaign at Lappin's hall next Monday evening. There is to be good music, plenty of fun and jubilancy, songs by the Glee Club, five minute talks by prominent speakers, and an evening crowded full of enthusiasm and interest. Let the hall be packed full, and let everybody take a personal interest in making this meeting a grand success.

BRIEFLETS.

—To-morrow is choose-day.

—Be sure and vote, and vote right.

—Robert Murray for being drunk was to-day sentenced to twenty-four hours in jail.

—Jay Rial's Humpty Dumpty promises much fun at the Opera house, Tuesday evening.

—Dillon, the funny man, is to show up his "Electric Light" at the Opera house Wednesday evening.

—All-Saints' day caused the usual services to be held in the Episcopal and Catholic churches, this forenoon.

—The Democrats Saturday night placed in nomination for Assemblyman of this district Hon. J. J. R. Pease.

—Election brings the medical students home. Among those thus returned today are Frank Pember, James Mills, Will Palmer and young Menzies.

—The Circuit Court opens next Wednesday. The calendar is a light one, having only 45 civil cases and 22 criminal ones. None are of special public interest.

—Gilbraith & Reed's grocery store, on Main street, was entered by sneak thieves, yesterday, and the till tapped of about $2 in nickles and pennies, and a little plug tobacco was taken.

—Tonight is the last rally of the campaign before the voting commences. Republicans, all turn out, fill Lappin's hall to the full. There will be good speaking, good music, a good time for all.

—Amount of money orders issued and paid for the week ending Oct. 30th 1880. Issued, 97 orders amounting to $1,309.13, and paid 116 orders amounting to $2,190.51, making a total amount of $3,499.64.

—Two little girls yesterday borrowed a horse and buggy of a friend visiting from the country, and drove around two or three blocks at Monterey. They succeeded in overturning the buggy, spilling themselves out, and letting the horse run. The wreck was not a bad one, and the girls were uninjured.

—Last evening there was a lively little row in which a Spanish barber "Tony," a tanner named Griffin, and a colored stable boy, "Charlie" were interested "Tony" is charged with having used a razor, from which Charlie received a slight cut, but nothing very serious, and no arrests have been made.

—Arrangements have been made for a meeting at Lappin's hall, to-morrow night, to listen to the returns. The Glee Club will be present, the band will be out, and there will be a telephone and a microphone connecting with the telegraph office, so that there will be no delay in getting returns. In order to defray expenses, an admission of ten cents will be charged.

—The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Si Hart will be glad to know that they returned home from Europe to-day. They have been away five years and five months, but have allowed no time to run to waste. Mr. Hart having become wonderfully proficient in music, and his wife no less so in painting. They will be heartily welcomed home again.

—Cannon's hall was well filled yesterday afternoon, by an appreciative audience who came to enjoy the Y. M. C. A. song service. The exercises were interesting, consisting of a select reading by Prof. Silsbee. Also some very interesting remarks by Rev. J. M. Thomas on "The Power of Music." Messrs. De Groat and Dutton made some practical remarks. These interspersed with music rendered the occasion one full of interest.

—One of the largest and most enthusiastic Republican meetings which has been held in Rock county during the present campaign was held in Lima on Saturday evening. The meeting was held in Holbrook's elegant and spacious hall, which was filled to overflowing with ladies and gentlemen. Hon. Fred Gould presided. The meeting was addressed by Hon. James Sutherland and E. M. Hyzer. The speakers was frequently interrupted by rounds of applause, and were hospitably entertained by the good people of the town. Lima is one of the banner Republican towns in Rock county.

DEMOCRATIC DOCTRINES.

How They Were Set Forth at the Saturday Night Rally in Lappin's Hall.

The arrangements for a glorious Democratic rally in Lappin's hall last Saturday evening, have been thought over, and crowed over for ten days or more, and the flourish of trumpets sounded the promise that Julian and Trumbull, and other noted Democratic candles would light up the altar of their faith, and try to dispel somewhat the gloom which has settled down upon them like a nightmare. The promised orators, however, could not be induced to make their light seen, and the public was obliged to content itself as best it could with listening to Dr. Whiting, and Henry McKey, of Chicago.

As all know, Dr. Whiting is a favorite talker here, and he set the ball rolling with considerable enthusiasm. He spoke of the national debt, and asserted that if the reported reductions of the debt were true, it must have been wiped out before this. He doubted the reports. He didn't believe that anyone knew how the debt stood, and couldn't know until the Democrats got hold of the books. He protested against the payment of rebel claims, and asserted that it was the Republicans who had been paying such claims, and not the Democrats. He charged the Republican party with having a tendency to centralization, while the Democratic party believed that the country was best governed which was least governed. He charged the Republican party with its officeholders, and pitifully pictured the Democratic party as having no such funds to draw from. It must win by its principles. He urged that Tilden was counted out, and in closing, while he could not predict victory he put in the plea—"If we fail let us have it to say we did our whole duty."

At the close of the Doctor's little speech, Henry McKey, of Chicago, was introduced, and came from behind the scenes. As he came to the front he was given the very happy send off of some star actor, the crowd cheering, the band starting up its trumpets, and the enthusiasm given a flash, which was bright while it lasted, but made things seem all the more black and more gloomy when it went out, as it soon did after he commenced talking. His many friends here of both parties, and the old acquaintances of other days were alike curious to hear him, but curiosity soon became satisfied, he seemed to be weighed in the balance and found wanting, and soon the audience began to thin out. Still he kept talking, and kept talking, and kept talking, and as the half-hours reached the full hours the hearers kept going, and going, and going until not more than fifty men and boys were left to hear the finish. Time, two hours and forty minutes. A more cordial send-off and a more dismal quitoff seldom mark the beginning and ending of any speech.

He opened up with an assertion that there were more Democrats in the Union army than there were Republicans. Without stopping to discuss how it was with the Southern army, he passed on to consider the question of a change being wanted. He asserted that it was no sin to ask for a change. He picked up the Republican platform and declared it to be full of lies. He called attention to the fact that the Republicans there claimed they had reduced the National debt. He said it was a lie. The Democrats had drank some whisky and smoked some cigars, and had thus helped reduce the debt. The Republicans claimed they had suppressed the rebellion. It was a lie. The Democrats had done more in suppressing the rebellion than the Republicans. The Republicans claimed a hundred things which were lies.

In speaking of the tariff question he said that anyone who accused the Democratic party of being in favor of free trade was either "an ignoramus or a liar." This expression seemed to be quite a favorite one with the speaker, and was tacked onto the tail of many an assertion throughout the speech, it seeming to be the speaker's general estimate of those who dared to differ from him in opinion on those points. He tossed aside the tariff question by saying that it was not in issue anyway, and proceeded to show how the Republican county board, of Cook county, had arranged to disfranchise Democratic voters, by refusing to furnish enough polling places in districts having a Democratic majority. He declared that no such systematic and bold bulldozing had been done in the South. Considerable time was used in showing up this charge. The speaker raked up and raked over the proceedings of the electoral commission, the frauds in Louisiana, and defended the Solid South. He charged the Republicans with having made the South solid. He spent considerable more time in picturing the extravagances of carpet-bag rule, how the State debts had increased, and the people been burdened with these debts and extravagances, until they would stand it no longer.

The speaker was very positive in his assertions. He dared, time and again, anyone to deny what he asserted, claimed to be backed up by Republican authorities, and had upon the stand, near at hand, what bore a very close resemblance to a scrap-book, and the Democratic campaign book, which seemed to fill him with courage to meet the foe. He made many favorable allusions to the GAZETTE, and frequently closed a paragraph with the inquiry, "Will the GAZETTE print that?" Now I want the GAZETTE to tackle that,' so that when he wasn't calling some supposed opponent "an ignoramus or a liar," he was giving the Gazette free advice as to what it should print and what it shouldn't print. These frequent switch-offs made the address appear like Artemus Ward's lecture on "The babes in the woods," when he would rattle away on everything but the subject on which the people came to hear him, and would wind up a paragraph frequently with "Well, this is what I would have said, if I had not chosen for my subject 'The babes in the woods.'"

Mr. McKey is rather a pleasing speaker. He is forcible and is charmingly positive, and has evidently gifts more than ordinary. He bears some marks of the Doolittle school, but this is probably the result of close contact with the Judge himself, and having sat under his tutorage, but with time this will wear off somewhat, and his own individuality will show forth more strongly, and give him more strength. His old friends here were glad to hear him, but the length of the speech, and its peculiar contents, must serve them as an apology for not hearing him to the end.

FUNERAL OF SERGT. CHILDERS

Yesterday afternoon the funeral services of Sergeant Childers were held at the Congregational church. The services were of a peculiarly sad and touchingly tender tinge, owing to the manner in which he met his death, the many changes in the life thus ended, and more than all, as was remarked by Rev. T. P. Sawin, who officiated, there was not a relative present. He had no friends here, seemingly, and only a few acquaintances, and yet when the calamity came, friends sprang up as though from unseen sources, and at his funeral yesterday there were many in attendance. Yet of all these, but few, if any, knew much of the man, beyond the fact that he had dropped into Janesville, and dropped out again. He was not a bona fide member of the Bower City Rifles. They had simply employed him to drill them, and while there were no peculiar obligations resting upon them, they felt the obligations of humanity, and gave him a soldier's burial, as a fitting close to a soldier's life.

The services at the church were very impressive, and Mr. Sawin gave a most excellent and appropriate address. Many joined in following the remains to the grave, in the company's lot in Oak Hill cemetery, and there the usual military burial was given. The firing squad numbered twelve and were under command of Sergt. Joseph Bear. The company, to the number of thirty-five, paid a soldier's tribute to a fellow soldier. The bearers were chosen from the Rifles, they being Sergt. Bintliff, Corp. Cheney, Corp. Henrich, N. Larson, A. Grampke, and C. Kellum. The company defrayed all the needed expenses, and have expressed the desire for the GAZETTE to bespeak their thanks for those who assisted them; to Britton & Kimball, for their generosity; to Mrs. Crossett for a beautiful wreath, for the casket, and to all others who joined in paying mete tribute to him who has thus gone hence.

WEDDING CHIMES.

BOWEN—POTTER.

The marriage of William Bowen, well known in this city, and Miss Fannie Potter the daughter of Mr. Charles Potter, took place at the bride's home this afternoon at 1 o'clock. The ceremony was not a public one, but there were a large number of family connections, some from afar, and a few intimate friends of the families present at the wedding. The Rev. T. W. MacLean, rector of Trinity church, officiated. The wedding dinner was elegant and abundant. The happy couple left for Yankton, Dakota, on the 3:40 train this afternoon.

MRS. J. B. WILSON, Tiffin, Ohio, says: —I have worn an Improved Excelsior Kidney Pad, and received more relief from all remedies I have ever tried. I cheerfully recommend it to all sufferers. —See Adv.

A HORSE FOR THE HOSE

Burr Robbins, with accustomed generosity, has given Water Witch Engine Company No. 2, permission to use one of his horses this winter, to draw their hose cart. The company has gladly accepted the offer, the hose cart is being provided with thills, and the stable is being altered so as to accommodate one more horse. This change will make a marked improvement in the efficiency of the hose company. There are now eleven men who care for the hose, and at the time of a fire they are expected to draw this cart by hand, and on the run, so that by the time they reach a blaze, especially if it is at any distance, they are pretty well exhausted. Under the new arrangement two or three men will ride on the hose cart, and will arrive at a fire all fresh for lively work, and the others can come up soon after, in good condition for business. The boys feel good over the new arrangement, and predict with confidence that by the change they will be able, if there is need, to throw a stream even on Burr Robbins' barn inside of ten minutes after the alarm.

The Pleasures of Hope.

When the body is bowed with pain an intense longing for relief brings hope. This may brighten the suffering but it does not cure. At a time like this how welcome is such a friend as Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, bringing hope, health and happiness and the joys of a renewed life.

I return thanks to all my old customers for their patronage, and solicit a continuation of the same. As times have improved and prices advanced on everything else, I have thought it necessary to advance my price of tuning in Janesville from $1.50 to $2.00. Please leave your orders at Moseley's bookstore, at Warren Collins' music store, and at Sutherland's bookstore.

Very respectfully,

J. E. SARGENT.

BEGINNING HIS WORK.

Rev. Olin. A. Curtis occupied the pulpit of the Court Street church, yesterday, for the first time as pastor, and was listened to by large and attentive audiences both morning and evening. His morning text was—"There was a man sent from God, whose name was John." His theme was "The Ideal Preacher." He pressed home the thoughts that the true preacher was a man, with the weakness and yet with the sympathy of man. He must be a man sent, not one who goes, or seeks the work, but sent, and he must be one sent from God, having a message from God, and relying on God's strength, and he must be a man who maintains his individuality. The sermon was full of strong thought, forcibly put, and clothed in language and inspired with an enthusiasm which made it touch upon the eloquent and the thrilling. His remarks incident to his opening his work here, where were sacred memories of his boyhood days, were very touching.

In the evening he preached upon the text "I can do all things through Christ who strengtheneth me." He presented the two elements in man's make-up, the egotism and despair, and how they warred with each other, until they become reconciled with Christ. Like the morning sermon it was full of fire. It glowed and warmed.
